Biographies

Lee Berger, oboe soloist

Lee Berger was born and raised in South Florida and currently resides in Coral Springs. Lee is a Music Performance major and Academic Honors student at the Lynn University Conservatory of Music, where she studies with John Dee; Oboe Professor and Principal Oboist of the former Florida Philharmonic Orchestra and Florida Grand Opera. Lee is an active member of the International Double Reed Society (IDRS) and has attended annual conferences in both Tallahassee, Florida and Morgantown, West Virginia. After receiving her Bachelor's Degree, Lee wishes to pursue graduate studies at Carnegie Mellon University and plans on pursuing a Ph.D. in Music Performance. Lee looks forward to one day playing solo recitals and obtaining a position in a reputable orchestra. Lee is not only a musician but also an artist and had been granted a merit award in the Ft. Lauderdale Art Institute's annual art showcase for her ceramic sculpture, "Sea Flower". Lee has held an imminent interest in both music and art since the age of five and has constantly been committed to the performing and visual arts.

In 2003, Lee won the annual Lynn University Concerto Competition and performed with the Lynn University Philharmonia. Lee also received First Place in the Broward Symphony Orchestra's annual concerto competition in 2000 and Second Place in the Florida Philharmonic Society's annual concerto competition in 2000. Lee has performed with the Miami Bach Society, the Gold Coast Opera Orchestra, the Boca Ballet Orchestra, the Ars Flores Chamber Orchestra, the Palm Beach Atlantic Wind Ensemble, the Florida Youth Orchestra, Young Artists Chamber Orchestra, and is a former Principal Oboist of the Broward Symphony Orchestra. Lee has also attended professional master-classes with established oboists and English horn players including Tom Stacy, Sarah Bloom, and Ray Still and has performed under well-known conductors Alfred Reed and Frederick Fennell.
